Holcomb signs disaster emergency for Sept. 3 flooding

BY BOB DEMAREE

Gov. Eric Holcomb signed an executive order Thursday declaring a disaster emergency for Jefferson, Switzerland and Ohio counties due to the heavy rainfall on Sept. 3 that resulted in flash flooding causing severe damage to roads, homes, buildings and bridges and one death in Jefferson County.

Now, the Indiana Department of Homeland Security (IDHS) will be working with officials from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to determine if the damages meet the threshold for federal assistance.

Earlier, Jefferson County Emergency Management Director Troy Morgan had said the threshold eligibility for disaster relief was between $11 million and $12 million. It now appears that total damage in the three-county area may be near that figure.

Switzerland County experienced significant widespread damage and has been assessed as having sustained the greatest total among the three counties. On Friday, Tom Moore, Switzerland County Emergency Management director, said damages are still being tallied for Switzerland County but that the cost is currently estimated at $10.4 million, and there's potential more more to be added. Moore estimated the damage in Ohio County at $50,000 to $60,000.

Meanwhile, Morgan put Jefferson County's damage assessment at roughly $1.2 million. Even with Jefferson and Ohio totals less than initially thought, Morgan said Switzerland's losses open the possibility that the three counties may meet the federal threshold.

Jefferson County Ag Day

Above right: Jefferson County Ag Day returned to the Jefferson County 4-H Fairgrounds on Thursday after two years being canceled by the COVID-19 pandemic. This year's event was the 24th overall — the first held in 1997 — to provide third graders throughout Jefferson County an opportunity to learn about agriculture. The program was conducted by FFA students and teachers from Madison Consolidated School and Southwestern Jefferson County Schools along with the Jefferson County Extension Office and Jefferson County Farm Bureau. Participating schools included Anderson, Deputy, Lydia Middleton, Rykers' Ridge, Southwestern and Pope John elementaries along with Christian Academy of Madison and Canaan Community Academy. Children take the opportunity to pet a cow while Eden Wehner, of Southwestern FFA, shared insights about cows with the third graders. Below right: Colton Chandler (left), of Southwestern FFA, displays a chicken while he and Jenna Martin, of Madison FFA, talk to students about poultry during Jefferson County Ag Day.

Board sends historic district survey, map to council

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison's Historic District Board of Review (HDBR) got a look at the city's new online Historic Architecture Survey Database this week — a comprehensive document that lists every property in the 133-block downtown historic district — and approved sending it and a Madison Local Historic District Survey Update to Madison City Council for approval.

Madison's Planning, Preservation and Design office and consultant the Lakota Group have been working on the update for several months. City Council approved new Historic District guidelines in September and will now review the city's updated survey and online map of the historic district perhaps as soon as its meeting on Oct. 4 with a public hearing possibly on Oct. 18.

The survey and map, which draft copies of both are now available on the city's website, is the first update of the city's historic survey since 1982 and lists 1,945 "places" in the historic district broken down by significance, date, style, category, form, function, story height and rating designations. The document is search-able by address — and a number or other categories — and expandable with detailed information about each structure and more than 4,200 images of the various properties.

The list includes 134 structures considered historically significant — the city's most historic structures from a Stone Arch Bridge to the Lanier State Historic Site — and 1,411 structures considered contributing — from the shotgun homes and duplexes seen throughout the city to massive homes and businesses restored, unrestored and dilapidated — and a list of 398 structures considered as non-contributing.

Nicole M. Schell, the city's director of planning, said the study took several months to complete and was 100% funded by the city. All properties were photographed between November to March and the background data was gathered from the previous survey and other sources in an effort to best document each property.

"This is something we've needed for so long," HDBR Chairman Josh Wilber said. "The interactive part of it is great ... kudos to the great job

Southwestern holds budget hearing, hears ADM concerns

BY BOB DEMAREE

Southwestern School Board began its meeting on Monday with a public hearing concerning the corporation's 2023 budget and later received a report by corporation treasurer Laura Boldery that the impact of declining attendance has become a growing concern on school finances.

The advertised total budget for Southwestern is $16,462,889, which includes $10,922,400 in the education fund, $4,555,300 in the operations fund and $885,189 in debt service, along with $100,000 in a rainy day fund. The advertised tax levy is $11,573,243 with a tax rate of 1.6555.

Boldery said the advertised numbers are traditionally higher due than the actual budget and tax rate due to the budgetary process utilized by the State of Indiana.

"We advertise high, knowing they will bring us down," she said. "You always advertise high because you cannot increase it at any time but you can lower it at any time. So, it will come down. These are estimated real figures of what I need to operate the best way for the school, but we won't get that much money."

The school system could also get less money from the state based on its enrollment figures.

Indiana's enrollment count day was Friday, Sept. 16, and Southwestern's average daily membership (ADM) was 1,208.49 — the 0.49 is for a student who goes to vocational school — for a decline of 41.51 students compared last year's total of 1,250.

By enrolling 41.51 fewer students Southwestern Jefferson County Schools stands to lose $290,000 in state funding. On a positive note, Boldery noted this fall's 1,208.49 total is an increase over February's count day in which Southwestern had 1,196 students.

"We have an excellent school and we need to work hard to get that enrollment back up, and we have excellent programs," Boldery said. "We've got to figure out a way to hang on to those kids in

MADISON ADM UP SLIGHTLY

Madison Consolidated School confirmed its Average Daily Membership numbers earlier this week, noting that enrollment was up by seven students over last year.

The enrollment numbers were unavailable when Madison School Board held its budget hearing on Sept. 14.

Madison ADA's number is 2,564, according to Ashley Schutte, MCS communications coordinator. This year's count day in Indiana was Friday, Sept. 16, which is the second Friday after Labor Day.

GOP caucus elects Hoskins as next Jefferson County treasurer

BY BOB DEMAREE

Meghan Crowley Hoskins was the top vote getter to succeed Melinda Klopp as Jefferson County Treasurer when Jefferson County Republicans held a caucus on Thursday.

Meghan Crowley Hoskins

Hoskins out-polled Charity Estheimer and Johanna Johnson in voting by the 19 precinct committee members charged with selecting the successor to current Treasurer Melinda Klopp, who is retiring on Oct. 28.

Hoskins, the current first deputy in the County Treasurer's office, said winning the caucus was "amazing" and with her seven years experience in the office should provide a seamless, uninterrupted transition for the entire Courthouse. She said the treasurer's position is "not a job that you can just walk into. You really have to be in there and experience it, and put the time in to really understand the whole interworkings of everything. I'm really happy with the opportunity."

"I'm so excited that Meghan won," Klopp, who has served two terms as County Treasurer since being elected in 2016 and reelected in 2002, said. "She's been my firsthand woman."

A 2006 graduate of Madison Consolidated High School, Hoskins worked at River Valley Financial Bank for 8-1/2 years prior to joining the Treasurer's office in 2016.

"I enjoy working with the public," said Hoskins. "I enjoy customer service and I'm good at it. I learned that early on at River Valley, and I enjoy what I do, and I'm really happy I'm able to continue on to serve the county."

However, Hoskins' election as County Treasurer does create a vacancy at first deputy. In addition to Klopp's retirement later this month,

Lost Fork Creek bridge on SR 56 to reopen on Monday

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Force Construction Company, the Indiana Department of Transportation's contractor on bridge/boxed culvert replacement projects, plans to reopen the State Road 56 bridge over Lost Fork Creek as early as Monday.

Ongoing closures to State Road 56 between Madison and Vevay will then move east into Switzerland County next week.

Once the Lost Fork Creek bridge reopens, crews will close State Road 56 just east of Spring Branch Road to complete a box culvert replacement project in Switzerland County. The road is expected to remain closed through late October. Traffic will be detoured to US 421 and State Road 129.

The $5.5 million rehabilitation contract also includes a superstructure replacement on State Road 156 at Log Lick near Markland Dam. The project is currently scheduled to begin in late 2022 or early 2023 under phased construction with temporary traffic signals.

All work is weather-dependent and schedules are subject to change.

Meanwhile, the Jefferson County Highway Department announced on Friday that a road closure on Polk Road between 13085 and 13112 West Polk Road is now complete, and the road is reopened to through traffic.

Link Luddington, a historic preservationist from Madison, said he hoped the public would be "given time to digest" the documents prior to a council vote and questioned whether the process included "a mechanism for dealing with corrections and updates." He added that he hoped the HDBR could "iron out as many bugs as possible at this level" before the document goes to the council.

Schell said the documents, although considered up to date at this time, will be an ongoing process and changes, corrections and other updates should be easily made when necessary. She said the plan is for the staff to have administrative control over the survey and map to be able to make updates.

Both documents are currently available through the city's website.

met, Morgan said state disaster remains and some funding could be provided by the state.

Morgan said even if the FEMA threshold is met, the federal disaster relief will be for public infrastructure. He said individual damage assessments are not enough to meet the FEMA threshold, and private property owners should not expect any federal emergency assistance.

He said the threshold for state assistance will also not be met for private individuals. Morgan said if any assistance is identified he will communicate that information once it is received.

According to the IDHS press release, the Governor's declaration impacts public assistance for infrastructure and not individual homes. IDHS staff have been working with local officials since the Sept. 3 disaster to properly assess the damage and determine what resources the state can provide to help the counties.

Holcomb said "Hoosiers in southern Indiana are rebuilding their lives after significant damage occurred from flash floods ..."

TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On Oct. 3, 1995, the jury in the O.J. Simpson murder trial in Los Angeles found the former football star not guilty of the 1994 slayings of his former wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, and Ronald Goldman. (Simpson was later found liable for damages in a civil trial).

ON THIS DATE:

In 1941, Adolf Hitler declared in a speech in Berlin that Russia had been "broken" and would "never rise again."

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. Army troops cracked the Siegfried Line north of Aachen, Germany.

In 1951, the New York Giants captured the National League pennant by a score of 5-4 as Bobby Thomson hit a three-run homer off Ralph Branca of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the "shot heard 'round the world."

In 1961, "The Dick Van Dyke Show," also starring Mary Tyler Moore, made its debut on CBS.

In 1970, the National Oceanic & Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) was established under the Department of Commerce.

In 1974, Frank Robinson was named major league baseball's first Black manager as he was placed in charge of the Cleveland Indians.

In 1981, Irish nationalists at the Maze Prison near Belfast, Northern Ireland, ended seven months of hunger strikes that had claimed 10 lives.

In 1990, West Germany and East Germany ended 45 years of postwar division, declaring the creation of a reunified country.

In 2001, the Senate approved an agreement normalizing trade between the United States and Vietnam.

In 2003, a tiger attacked magician Roy Horn of duo "Siegfried & Roy" during a performance in Las Vegas, leaving the superstar illusionist in critical condition on his 59th birthday.

In 2008, O.J. Simpson was found guilty of robbing two sports-memorabilia dealers at gunpoint in a Las Vegas hotel room. (Simpson was later sentenced to nine to 33 years in prison; he was granted parole in July 2017 and released from prison in October of that year.)

In 2011, an Italian appeals court freed Amanda Knox of Seattle after four years in prison, tossing murder convictions against Knox and an ex-boyfriend in the stabbing of their British roommate, Meredith Kercher.

Ten years ago: An aggressive Mitt Romney sparred with President Barack Obama on the economy and domestic issues in their first campaign debate. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton promised a full and transparent probe of the attack on the U.S. consulate in Benghazi, Libya, that killed the U.S. ambassador to Libya and three other Americans.

Five years ago: President Donald Trump, visiting Puerto Rico in the aftermath of Hurricane Maria, congratulated the U.S. island territory for escaping the higher death toll of what he called "a real catastrophe like Katrina"; at a church used to distribute supplies, Trump handed out flashlights and tossed rolls of paper towels into the friendly crowd. The United States expelled 15 of Cuba's diplomats to protest Cuba's failure to protect Americans from unexplained attacks in Havana. Yahoo announced that the largest data breach in history had affected all 3 billion accounts on its service, not the 1 billion it had revealed earlier.

One year ago: A report from the International Consortium of Investigative Journalists found that hundreds of world leaders, politicians, billionaires, religious leaders and drug dealers had been hiding investments in mansions, beachfront property, yachts and other assets for decades, using shell companies and offshore accounts to keep trillions of dollars out of government treasuries; those identified as beneficiaries of the secret accounts included Jordan's King Abdullah II and former U.K. Prime Minister Tony Blair. An EgyptAir jet landed in Tel Aviv, making the first official direct flight by the Egyptian national carrier since the two countries signed a 1979 peace treaty. Tom Brady rallied the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to a 19-17 victory over the Patriots on a rainy Sunday night in his return to New England.

Hanover OKs CDBG application

BY BOB DEMAREE

Hanover Town Council on Tuesday approved submitting a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) to the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs as it moves toward developing a comprehensive plan for the community.

The council adopted the resolution supporting application for the planning grant after previously compiling categories for the scope of work and holding a public hearing last week that no one attended.

The grant is important to council members who want to be certain there is funding for the comprehensive plan that will serve as an important guide for land use and development, community facilities, open space and transportation decision-making for Hanover in the future.

The town is currently finalizing how it will utilize $648,000 allocated in American Rescue Plan funds, and plans were established to set aside $20,000 of that in case the CDBG comprehensive plan grant is not awarded.

The council had discussed earmarking the $20,000 for a stormwater management study, but decided to eliminate that with anticipation the study could be done as part of the comprehensive plan.

the office earlier this year lost longtime employee Margaret Bridgford, who also retired from the office.

"I look forward to training people and getting people to enjoy doing what I do," Hoskins said.

Hoskins said she has worked in finance throughout her career and when Klopp had to be out of office earlier this year for health reasons, Hoskins said she "performed my own job duties but also assumed the responsibilities of the treasurer." She said she has "put tremendous effort into learning this job and I have gone above and beyond" with a track record of managing taxpayer dollars.

Before the vote took place, there was a discussion about whether requirements for notifying caucus members, who must be notified by first class mail at least 10 days before the date of caucus, had been met. The notice had been put in the mail on Sept. 19, 10 days before the caucus. However, while some caucus members received mailings postmarked Sept. 19, there were others postmarked Sept. 20. Precinct committee members, assured that the notification letters were delivered to the post office on Sept. 19, voted to move forward with the caucus with the understanding that they cannot control when the postmark is done by the post office.

September for the count. It's too easy now for them to back and forth from school to school."

Boldery said she's aware that students and their families should have the right to do that, but "it's hurting schools."

The board also held a public hearing on 2023 capital projects and bus replacement plans.

The school budget is slated to be adopted at the board's Oct. 24 meeting along with the capital projects and bus replacement plans.

In other business, the board:

• Approved increasing the adult breakfast price to $2.70 from the previous rate of $2.50, which is an Indiana Department of Education requirement in order for the school corporation to continue providing free breakfast to all students. The board also approved using the Wilson Education Center for the school corporation's bread and milk bids. Additionally, Katie King, the school corporation's director of child nutrition, updated a change in state regulations regarding micro-purchasing that increases the threshold from $10,000 to $50,000. Before there was a requirement for purchases to be equitable, but now purchases can be from whoever they want as long as they are less than $50,000.

• Wanda Blair, a contracted bus driver, asked for an increase in the $12.70 per hour pay for busing students on field trips, noted that for that pay "it's not worth it," and that other school corporations are paying higher daily rates. Board president Rick Stockdale said the pay scale policy needs to be examined to see if adjustments can be made. Board vice president John Jones said the board will rely on assistant superintendent Jason Watson to prepare a new policy for the board to consider. "As a board we will address it," said Jones.

• Boldery reported on a fundraiser that's underway for a new preschool playground. Two possible playgrounds are under consideration — one costing $58,445 and other $67,795 — with hope that raising $60,000 will provide what is needed.

• Approved $16,000 for emergency roof repairs by Royalty Roofing for a leak at the high school. Boldery said Royalty owes the school corporation about that amount for damage caused by leaks at the elementary school in which the roofer is liable. Therefore, Boldery said there will not be any cost to the school corporation but board approval was still needed.

• Approved purchase of new padding for the columns at King Gymnasium. "As you know, the old ones look terrible," said Boldery. She said the pads will help to complete a renovation of the gym that includes a new floor and bleachers. The board approved $5,530 to purchase the pads from Lee Company.

• Approved $16,900 for Sedam Contracting to repair outside drainage between the elementary school and central office near a trash bin. Due to the lack of drainage around the trash bin, Boldery said the health department is requiring that it be repaired because when trash is compacted fluids escape onto the road between the buildings. The project will create drainage as a catch basin in the existing spill area.

• Recognized senior Ashton Crumley for pausing his race during the pre-Ohio River Valley Conference cross country meet at Hanover College, to assist another athlete who had passed out on the course. Crumley ran to get assistance before resuming his own race. He was previously given an Indiana High School Athletic Association sportsmanship pin.

Don't Put Your Money Under the Mattress - There Are Other Options

"Numerous options exist for a safe place to keep your money; the secret is finding the best return without any exposure to risk." Steve Dybwad

Layin It On The Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

Insulating your money against inflation, theft or catastrophe is as simple as taking it out from underneath your mattress and opening a savings account. The three most common are transactional savings accounts, money market accounts, and certificates of deposit. Two alternative accounts are high yield savings and specialty savings accounts. They all operate under the same premise: money given to the bank will earn interest.

Traditional Transactional Savings Accounts

The simplest way to store money with a financial institution is to open a traditional savings account with a small minimum deposit. If the minimum is maintained, the account holder usually avoids fees. Shop around and compare factors like initial deposit and balance requirements, interest rates, and other fees. While being highly liquid makes it easy to withdraw cash and move funds between accounts, they typically have the lowest interest rates. Accounts are federally insured through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or the National Credit Union Association (NCUA), protecting your savings from bank failures.

High Yield Savings Account

High yield savings accounts offer interest rates usually 20 to 25 times higher than the national average for transactional savings accounts. While potentially available at your local bank, the highest interest rates are typically offered by online banks. Electronic transfers between institutions are speedy and straightforward, making it easy to move your funds if needed. FDIC or NCUA also insures them. Keep in mind that banks offering high yield savings accounts do not typically provide checking accounts and other services like ATM cards.

Specialty Savings Account

Specialty savings accounts are specific to a particular savings goal. These include accounts you can open for children like savings accounts, student accounts, or 529 college savings accounts. Also included are home down payment savings accounts, health savings accounts, and traditional or Roth IRA's. These accounts generate interest and have either low or no maintenance costs. Be aware of strict and potentially costly regulations related to early withdrawal of funds. There are also specifics concerning who can open what type of account.

Money Market Account

Money market accounts typically offer higher interest rates than traditional savings accounts, .02% higher on average. This type of account is special in that you can write checks and use a debit card, like a checking account. However, there are limits to the amount of money and the number of withdrawals allowed. It's also not uncommon for higher minimum balance requirements and fees associated with money market accounts.

Certificate of Deposit (CD) FDIC Insured

A certificate of deposit, or CD, is an account with a fixed interest rate, term length, and maturity date. The fixed date means funds cannot be accessed early without penalty. These accounts typically pay higher rates than traditional savings accounts and are less liquid. The risk is very low, and the return is guaranteed, making it a safe place to store funds that you plan to use in the future.

Each of these accounts can help achieve your savings goals. Evaluate the pros and cons of each depending on your goals and financial situation. Be sure to explore various institutions for the best rates possible, and as always, consult a trusted financial advisor regarding any questions you may have.

Bengals top Miami 27-15 after injured Tagovailoa carted off

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Behind an overhauled offensive line coalescing in front of quarterback Joe Burrow and a defense forcing turnovers, the Cincinnati Bengals are looking more like the defending AFC champions.

After losing their first two games, the Bengals have reeled off two wins in a span of five days.

They beat the New York Jets on Sunday, then turned around and took down Miami 27-15 in a Thursday night game marred by the horrific sight of Dolphins quarterback Tua Tagovailoa being taken off the field on a stretcher. Tagovailoa was taken to a hospital, but was expected to be released and fly home with the team. Coach Mike McDaniel said the QB sustained a concussion.

Burrow tossed a late a 2-yard touchdown pass to Hayden Hurst to seal the win after Cincinnati safety Vonn Bell picked off Miami backup quarterback Teddy Bridgewater with three minutes left in the game.

"All day the protection was awesome," said Burrow, who was 20 for 31 for 287 yards and two touchdowns. "I had all the time I needed in the pocket to find the guys I needed."

Tee Higgins caught seven passes for 124 yards and a TD for Cincinnati (2-2) Evan McPherson kicked two fourth-quarter field goals — including a 57-yarder — when the Bengals' drives stalled.

"Joe was lights out," Bengals coach Zac Taylor said. "You had to beat man coverage. We had the guys to do it and the protection to match it and the quarterback who, that's what he wants to see."

Bridgewater threw an incomplete pass on Miami's final drive to turn the ball over on downs with 57 seconds left.

Tagovailoa was 8 for 14 for 110 yards and an interception before his injury. Bridgewater finished 14 for 23 for 193 yards, a touchdown and an interception in relief.

"It's a tough loss," Bridgewater, a former first round pick in 2014 out of Louisville, said. "It's tough walking away, especially under the circumstances."

Tyreek Hill paced the Dolphins with 10 catches for 160 yards. Jason Sanders kicked three field goals and had one blocked. He also missed a point-after attempt.

"You're going to lose games to very good teams if you lose the turnover battle and you're kicking field goals instead of trying for touchdowns," Miami coach Mike McDaniel said. "We had been executing. We didn't today. You don't get free passes against good teams."

'SCARY MOMENT'

The Bengals handed Miami its first loss of the season. The Dolphins departed Cincinnati with uncertainty surrounding the future of their starting quarterback.

Tagovailoa was chased down and thrown to the turf by Cincinnati's Josh Tupou with about six minutes left in the first half. He remained down for more than seven minutes before being taken to a hospital with reported head and neck injuries.

His teammates gathered around as they worked on him.

"Very scary moment," McDaniel said. "He was evaluated for a concussion. He's in the concussion protocol, but he's being discharged. It's an emotional moment. It's not a part of the deal you sign up for."

The 24-year-old Tagovailoa was suffering from a sore back and was listed as questionable for most of the week ahead of the game. Tagovailoa briefly left Sunday's 21-19 victory over the Buffalo Bills after appearing to be disoriented by what the team originally said was a head injury after taking a hard hit from Bills linebacker Matt Milano late in the first half. He missed just three snaps and returned after halftime.

The team and Tagovailoa said after Sunday's game the quarterback had a back injury that caused his awkward stumble and fall after he was slammed into the turf in the second quarter.

NFL rushing champs vie for crown in Tennessee-Indianapolis clash

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — When Derrick Henry last visited Indianapolis, a third straight rushing crown seemed like a lock.

A broken foot and the rapid ascension of Jonathan Taylor ended Henry's two-year reign.

Now, as the Tennessee-Indianapolis rivalry resumes Sunday, two of the league's star backs — the former champ and the current one — will vie for the title of AFC South rushing king.

"It's always a battle and they have a good run defense," Henry said Thursday. "It's always a challenge and has always been a challenge. You have to get your mind right for Sunday and it starts out there."

Time will tell whether last season's results represent a true changing of the guard.

Henry, the 2015 Heisman Trophy winner, topped the 1,000-yard mark each of his first two seasons as the Titans starter and 2,000 in his third. Last year, despite missing the final nine regular-season games, Henry still finished ninth in the league with 937 yards.

Since returning from surgery, his four-game totals hardly resemble rushing royalty — 254 yards, 3.43 yards per carry, no 100-yard games.

Facing Indy (1-1-1) could help. Tennessee (1-2) hopes Henry can be as dominant this week as he's been historically against the Colts. In 12 games, he's rushed for 1,045 yards and six TDs, and he had four straight 100-yard outings before hurting his foot at Indy last October.

"He's like a locomotive and once he gets rolling it's tough to stop that motion," Colts linebacker Zaire Franklin said. "For us, it's really make sure that when he stops his feet to get to him, cut off those running lanes so he doesn't just get flying down there."

Taylor's trajectory has been equally impressive.

He's one of three FBS players with multiple 2,000-yard seasons and nearly became the first to achieve the feat three times. Taylor ran for more than 1,000 yards as a rookie, then emerged as a star last season with 1,811 yards and 18 TDs, both league bests, along with a league-high 2,171 yards from scrimmage.

This year, Taylor ranks fourth in the league in yards per game (95.3) despite only logging nine carries at Jacksonville and being held in check by Kansas City. This week, he faces the league's 29th-ranked run defense.

"I don't know that it's a throwback game because we both play offense, so they've done that (run first) a lot of times in my career," Taylor said. "I just always like to be wherever they need me, when they need me at a high level."

Indiana deer hunters urged to remember safety tips

BY IDNR

With the deer reduction zone season underway and the statewide archery deer season starting today, Indiana Conservation Officers remind hunters to stay safe.

The various deer hunting seasons run through Jan. 31, 2023.

It is estimated that more than 300,000 people will participate in some form of deer hunting in Indiana during that span.

The most common injuries during deer seasons are accidents involving tree stands and elevated platforms.

Hunters should follow the safety tips listed below when hunting from an elevated position.

Before the hunt:

• Read and understand the tree stand manufacturer's instructions.

• Check tree stands and equipment for wear, fatigue, and cracks or loose nuts/bolts, paying particularly close attention to parts made of material other than metal.

• Practice at ground level.

• Learn how to properly wear your full-body safety harness.

During the hunt:

• Wear your full-body safety harness.

• Use a tree stand safety rope.

• Make certain to attach your harness to the tree before leaving the ground, and that it remains attached to the tree until you return to the ground.

• Maintain three points of contact during ascent and descent.

• Use boots with non-slip soles.

• Use a haul line to raise and lower firearms, bows and other hunting gear.

• Make sure firearms are unloaded, action is open, and safety is on before attaching them to the haul line.

Additional safety tips:

• Carry emergency equipment, such as a cellphone and flashlight.

• Make a plan before you hunt.

• Tell someone your plan, including where you will be hunting and when you plan to return.

• Stick to your plan.

• Identify game before pointing a firearm.

• Know your target and what is beyond it.

Country living was great, until brother arrived

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: Our five family members share ownership of a remote rural summer home.

By agreement, each member can stay there up to two weeks a year.

Eighteen months ago, our brother became unemployed, unhoused, and has been staying in this house year-round, reluctantly leaving (late) when the other partners go for their annual vacation time.

Our brother has three dogs that are not house trained.

When we go down "to open the cabin for the season" we end up cleaning up our brother and his dog's messes.

He has not offered to do maintenance projects in lieu of rent, and the house and grounds have fallen into disrepair.

Our stepmother gave up her share of the partnership in order not to have to deal with our brother. No one wants to have a family meeting to sort this out. It is so stressful that we can't have a conversation.

We are almost at the point of wanting to sell the summer cabin, so we don't have to take on our brother's messes and behavior.

But, it would be a shame to lose our summer vacation cabin that we and our children have enjoyed for over 60 years.

— Disgusted Siblings

Dear Disgusted: If this property is jointly owned by your five family members with no specific leadership structure, then you are going to need consensus — as well as the assistance of a lawyer to sort through your options.

You should start by researching your legal, practical and personal options, and call a meeting with the other owners (not including your brother) to discuss this openly and try to form a consensus about what to do about this property, and how to try to handle your brother — who seems to have spiraled into a bad place.

Because your brother is a part-owner of the property, it might prove impossible to evict him. If he doesn't agree to sell, you and your siblings would have to go to court to try to force a sale.

Amy responds to criticism from readers on recent column

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Readers: I have heard from scores of readers extremely concerned about my response to "Avoiding Amanita," the question written by a man who spends a few days each month with a group of buddies in a cabin in the woods.

To recap: "Avoiding" described himself as someone schooled in biology with expertise regarding the danger of eating foraged mushrooms.

His concern had to do with the fact that his friends had found mushrooms in the woods and had included these mushrooms in a spaghetti sauce without informing him.

Avoiding was rightfully horrified when he learned that the entire group had ingested foraged mushrooms, which had been cooked into the sauce.

Avoiding was now refusing to eat food cooked by them, and was asking me if he'd overreacted.

I responded that his friends had made a "dangerous choice" and urged him to be honest about his reasons for refusing to eat food they'd cooked.

He also asked how to respond to this breach in their longtime friendship bond.

Many readers seem to believe that I had endorsed the dangerous practice of ingesting mushrooms found in the woods. Readers have called my response everything from "atrocious" to "potentially fatal."

The man who wrote to me — a veteran teacher of environmental science— emphasized in his query how dangerous it is to eat foraged mushrooms. ("Amanita" is a deadly mushroom — also known as the "Death Cap" mushroom.)

Additionally, I assumed that it is common knowledge that mushrooms can be poisonous and even deadly — and the large reader response reflecting how dangerous this was seems to confirm my faith in this common knowledge.

To repeat: DO NOT EVER INGEST FORAGED MUSHROOMS, ON THEIR OWN OR COOKED INTO FOOD. Even a small amount can be extremely dangerous.

In my opinion, where I really missed the mark in my response was where I suggested ways that Avoiding Amanita might somehow get beyond this incident, which was caused by disrespectful and irresponsible "friends."

Upon reflection, I believe that this man now has two things to avoid: Amanita … and these friends.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You may be tempted to give the wrong person the benefit of the doubt. Think things through after consulting a friend for feedback. Take action openly so everyone can see your good intentions and teamwork

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You could have a romantic partner wrapped around your finger but there might still be strings attached. Do not fight against duties that are included in your commitments. Loved ones may offer beneficial counseling.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Love someone for what they are, not for what you wish they would be. Minor misunderstandings and problems might occur if you make a decision today. You may not think clearly so don't draw attention to yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Outline your purpose in big block letters. Boundaries allow for generosity and kindheartedness without being seen as a doormat. Your powerful insights could give you dominance over the results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Your networking skills may become honed with extra practice.. You might find that the challenge of dealing with group social issues helps you become more accomplished and competent. Focus on finding useful solutions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Good ideas can flower when you step away from distractions. A loved one's intense interests can motivate you to try something new. You may need to test out more than one option to find the one that resonates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Capitalize on savvy business ideas and consider banking on a partner's support for your most important projects. Show off your friendliness and enthusiasm, as it may be what is needed to get attention and win approval.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Use a discerning eye and in-depth research. Supporting a local maker or craftsman might feel especially satisfying. Learn to find value in quality and uniqueness rather than in following every trend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — When you can prove to yourself that you have learned from the past, life gets very hopeful. Spending more time engaged in group activities can be productive. Be forgiving if your significant other exaggerates their successes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Since you are known by the company you keep, it makes sense to choose your companions carefully. Strive to always live up to your highest ideals yourself but be sure to have realistic expectation of other people.

Newman's single in 10th gives Pirates win and sweep of Reds

BY JOHN PERROTTO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PITTSBURGH — Kevin Newman hit a winning single in the 10th inning, and the Pittsburgh Pirates rebounded from a blown three-run lead in the ninth to beat Cincinnati 4-3 on Wednesday and send the Reds to their 96th loss, their most since 2015.

Kyle Farmer hit a two-run homer in the ninth off Chase De Jong and Jake Fraley homered five pitches later to tie the score 3-3.

After Yohan Ramirez (3-1) pitched a perfect 10th, Alexis Díaz (6-3) intentionally walked Ben Gamel, and Newman dumped a two-out single into shallow center to score pinch-runner Rodolfo Castro from second. Newman has seven walkoff hits.

"In that situation, I just take a deep breath, go pitch to pitch and try to get a good pitch to hit," Newman said. "It's always special anytime to come through. For my teammates, for the crowd, the organization just to end the game on a walk-off is awesome."

Pittsburgh (59-97), last in the NL Central, pulled within a game of the Reds (60-96), who are headed to their worst record since going 64-98 in 2015.

The Pirates have won seven in a row against Cincinnati.

"It's tough to come in here and lose the series against the Pirates," Farmer said. "I think it's a series we should have won."

Bryse Wilson allowed three hits — all to Jose Barrero — in eight shutout innings, Pittsburgh's longest scoreless outing since Iván Nova against Arizona on June 22, 2018 against Arizona. Wilson threw 90 pitches and said he still felt strong and would have gladly gone out for the ninth inning.

"I felt like I didn't have a ton of high-stress pitches — in the eighth a little bit — but I felt good," Wilson said. "I asked (to pitch the ninth) but it was shut down pretty quickly."

Pirates manager Derek Shelton did not regret pulling Wilson.

"In hindsight you can second-guess everything," Shelton said. "But in terms of why we made the decision and the thought process was, we're going to stick to our process. I'm more excited that Bryse threw the ball as well as he did for eight innings and was able to execute pitches. That was the thing that I'll take away from his outing."

Cats, Rebels have 1st game as ranked teams since '58

BY JOHN ZENOR
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky vs. Mississippi is quite a meaningful matchup in the Southeastern Conference these days.

It's a game of two teams with ambitions of challenging powerhouses Georgia and Alabama for division titles. The seventh-ranked Wildcats visit No. 14 Ole Miss on Saturday in a showdown of 4-0 teams and programs that have been built into potential contenders.

Mark Stoops

It's the first time the teams have met when both are ranked since 1958.

The game is the SEC opener for the Rebels, who have mostly breezed through not-so-impressive competition. Kentucky has a 26-16 win over then-No. 12 Florida on its resume.

"I think everyone's excited," Ole Miss offensive lineman Jeremy James said. "The fans are going to show out and it's going to be a great game, a lot of fun. This is what we all come here to do, play in these big games."

And it is a big game largely courtesy of Kentucky coach Mark Stoops and Ole Miss counterpart Lane Kiffin. Stoops has already passed Bear Bryant as the program's winningest coach, and Kiffin led Ole Miss to its first 10-win regular season a year ago, matching the Wildcats' win total.

"I imagine both of us are trying like heck to stay there or improve, and that comes with winning," Stoops said.

The Wildcats are seeking their third straight win over a ranked team and ninth in a row overall, both streaks the program hasn't managed since 1977. In fact, this is Kentucky's highest ranking since finishing sixth that season.

Both Ole Miss and Kentucky have won 15 of their last 18 games.

"I would normally say, hey we have high expectatons and always want to do better, but that's a pretty good number," Kiffin said.

"And Mark might say the same thing, especially playing in the SEC."

RODRIGUEZ RETURNS

The return of Kentucky running back Chris Rodriguez Jr. f rom a four-game suspension brings even more star power to the backfields. The senior All-SEC back rushed for 1,379 yards and nine touchdowns last season and figures to significantly improve an attack averaging just 81.5 yards per game.

"For Chris, he just needs to be himself," Stoops said. "He doesn't need to come in and be our savior or anything like that or save our run game, any of that."

Ole Miss freshman Quinshon Judkins (429 yards) and TCU transfer Zach Evans (365) rank second and fourth in the league, respectively, in rushing.

QUARTERBACK MATCHUP

Kentucky's Will Levis has already established himself as one of the better passers in the SEC. Jaxson Dart has established himself officially as the Rebels' starter after rotating with Luke Altmyer.

Levis leads the SEC in passing yards per (15.0), ranks third in passing efficiency (174.0) and passing touchdowns (10) and fourth in passing yards (1,185).

BETTER PROTECTION

Levis's start is all the more impressive considering he's had to pay for growing pains within Kentucky's offensive line. That unit has allowed a conference-worst 16 sacks, including five last week by Northern Illinois, but Stoops said no one is panicking.

"We've seen it before, when you have new guys and you've got new positions," he said. "They're getting experience with every game, they're getting better with every opportunity. There's moments that it sticks out, but there's a lot of good things they're doing as well."

FLASHBACK

The first win of Kiffin's Ole Miss tenure came over Kentucky on Oct. 3, 2020. The Rebels won 42-41 in overtime with help from a two-touchdown comeback and a missed Wildcats extra point in OT.

The previous meeting three years earlier was a doozie too: Ole Miss won 37-34 on freshman receiver D.K. Metcalf's catch in the corner of the end zone with five seconds left.

WINNING STREAK

The Rebels' 12-game winning streak in Oxford is the longest since winning 12 in a row from 1960-64. During a 34-game stretch back then, a tie with LSU was the lone blemish in a 34-game stretch.

Purdue up next for 21st-ranked Gophers

BY DAVE CAMPBELL
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MINNEAPOLIS — Michael Brown-Stephens was taking off his shoulder pads in Minnesota's boisterous locker room last weekend, eager to join the celebration of a statement win at Michigan State when he noticed a phone being passed around with fellow wide receiver Chris Autman-Bell looped in on FaceTime.

"No offense to Crab," Brown-Stephens said, using his injured teammate's nickname. "I forgot all about him."

The Gophers tried to do that on the field, too.

After Autman-Bell was hurt in the 49-7 win over Colorado on Sept. 17 and had season-ending surgery on his lower right leg, Minnesota was suddenly missing its best pass-catcher and a sixth-year leader from a group that struggled over the previous two seasons with consistency and health.

What followed in the Big Ten opener in Lansing gave the Gophers quite a confidence boost — if they even needed one.

Tanner Morgan completed passes to 10 different players, with six catches for 73 yards by Brown-Stephens leading the production. Dylan Wright had three receptions for 54 yards, and Daniel Jackson had two touchdown catches.

"You hate to see things like that happen, but I was called upon a lot to step up and bring the guys with me," Brown-Stephens said.

"I feel like just going into the week, game prepping and just preparing for everything, everybody just had a sense of, 'We've got to be better. We've got to go out there and make up for this.' "

Morgan went 23 for 26 for 268 yards in the 34-7 victory over the Spartans that kept the Gophers (4-0, 1-0) unbeaten atop the West Division and pushed them into the Associated Press rankings at No. 21 for the first time in nearly two years.

The passing performance served as yet more evidence, with offensive coordinator Kirk Ciarrocca back in sync with Morgan and head coach P.J. Fleck following two seasons elsewhere, that the Gophers can move the ball just fine without solely relying on star Mohamed Ibrahim and their conference-leading running game.

"We have guys that we trust that can go out there and make plays, and they're showing it to us at a consistent level," Morgan said. "They're only going to continue to go out there and get better."

Even factoring in the level of nonconference competition, the Gophers could hardly be playing better at this point of the season. They've outscored their opponents 183-24 and rank near the top of the FBS in several statistical categories as as team. Then there's Ibrahim, who is second in the country with 567 rushing yards in a remarkable return from a torn left Achilles tendon.

Purdue's defense will have its hands full on Saturday afternoon at Minnesota.

"You've got to figure out a way to make them uncomfortable, figure out a way to create pressure," Boilermakers coach Jeff Brohm said. "You've got to figure out a way to put them in more passing situations than they would like. Because if you don't, they're in control of the game. They have been very, very effective doing that."

The Gophers lead the FBS in possession time with an average of 40:33 per game.

"They make you bleed," Brohm said. "They make you bleed, and if you don't find a way to bandage it up or do something to strike back, it can be a long death."

Morgan is in his sixth year, one of Fleck's original recruits and a player so mature he got married over the summer. Purdue quarterback Aidan O'Connell is also off the market after a July wedding and is a sixth-year player who has put himself near the top of the program's all-time lists in rare air with the likes of eventual NFL passers Drew Brees, Kyle Orton and Jim Everett.

O'Connell's status, however, is unclear for Saturday. He was held out of last weekend's 28-26 win over Florida Atlantic with an unspecified injury suffered in the first quarter on Sept. 17 in a 32-29 loss at Syracuse. O'Connell finished that game, but Austin Burton took his place after that. Brohm said Michael Alaimo would likely take some snaps, too, if O'Connell is still sidelined.

"Both those guys worked hard last week and we've got to try to utilize them as well as we can," Brohm said.

Minnesota is one of 21 remaining undefeated teams in the FBS, one of four in the Big Ten and the only one in the conference's West Division. Georgia and Washington are the only others in the country who have yet to trail at any point this season.

Brohm beat Fleck when they were both Big Ten rookies, a 31-17 victory by the Boilermakers at home in 2017. The Gophers have won the last four matchups, though, and eight of the last nine games in the series overall.

This is Minnesota's homecoming game, and fans have been encouraged — depending on their seating section — to wear either maroon or gold clothing in hope of creating a two-tone hue around the stadium bowl. The university has dubbed this the " Stripe Out " game.

CFP talks look toward 2024

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ROSEMONT, Ill. — The conference commissioners who manage the College Football Playoff met for almost seven hours Tuesday to work on expanding the postseason system from four to 12 teams as soon as the 2024 season.

There is still much work to be done.

"We will not wrap up this week," CFP Executive Director Bill Hancock said.

The CFP management committee, comprised of 10 conference commissioners and Notre Dame's athletic director, is scheduled to convene again at the Big Ten offices for a few hours Wednesday morning. They are set to meet again in person in Dallas on Oct. 20.

"That'll be important," Hancock said.

Expansion talks were revived by the university presidents and chancellors who oversee the College Football Playoff last month.

By adopting a 12-team plan that had been on the table since the spring of 2021, the presidents pushed the commissioners to try to implement a new format before the end of the CFP's current contract with ESPN. That deal ends after the 2025 season.

Expanding from four to 12 in 2024 and '25 will require rescheduling semifinals and championship games that already have dates and sites set, plus adding four new first-round games in mid-December to be played on campus sites.
